VINTEN RADAMEC & RTLeaders ANNOUNCE JOINT PARTNERSHIP

Two leading names in broadcast robotics join forces for major development programme

Vinten Radamec, the world leading brand in robotics broadcast systems has announced a new research and product development partnership with Robotics Technology Leaders GmbH, formed just two years ago in Germany but already causing a stir in the industry.

The two companies will pool expertise and resources to deliver new products with the most advanced and innovative features available in broadcast robotics. Together they will provide a range of products suitable for virtually every camera support application.

“Vinten Radamec is acknowledged as the world leader in the development and production of broadcast robotic systems,” said Martin Philp, General Manager at Vinten Radamec, “so we are delighted to now be working with the RTLeaders team whose experience in robotics research and real-time computer applications will complement our own fields of expertise.

“Together we will have the most far reaching product development programme for robotics systems in the global broadcast industry.”

Dr Stefan Riesner, founder and CEO of RTLeaders GmbH said “The opportunity to share resources with the team at Vinten Radamec is a very exciting proposition for us. Our ability to interpret and transform the latest scientific research in robotics, real-time computer application and embedded systems perfectly complements the unmatched production expertise and quality systems at Vinten Radamec.”
